Designer Floor Cleaners (DF)

Penny and Vijay set up DF in 2010 in country X. They converted DF into a public limited company in 2014.

DF designs and sells steam floor cleaners. Manufacturing is outsourced to low-cost countries. DF's unique selling point (USP) is modern and stylish designs.

DF developed its brand using paid social media influencers to promote its goods. DF sold direct to customers on its website. This strategy was successful and DF developed a strong brand identity.

DF only used 10% of its profits for research and development and distributed the remainder in dividends.

Timeline of DF

| 2014 | Features on a popular TV programme and gains nationwide brand recognition. | |
|------|---|--|
| 2015 | Enters into a strategic alliance with Alliance Brands (AB) to stock DF products in AB's 2000 stores in country X. | |
| 2016 | Rapid market growth in country X. | |
| 2017 | Increased competition from manufacturers of innovative battery-powered floor cleaners. DF starts new 'Fly-away' promotional strategy (see Appendix 1). Cost to be shared equally between AB and DF. Demand is much greater than expectations. | |
| 2018 | DF refuses the majority of 'Fly-away' applications. Negative comments from angry customers trend on social media. The 'Fly-away' promotion crisis is highlighted on consumer TV programmes. | |
| 2019 | AB uses social media to place blame on DF for rejected 'Fly-away' applications. DF's market share falls. | |
| 2020 | DF reduces prices. | |
| 2021 | AB cancels agreement to sell DF products and returns unsold inventory. | |
| 2022 | Economic expansion in country X leads to market growth for consumer durable products. | |
| 2023 | DF's annual report includes a 10-year financial review (see Appendix 2). | |

Developing a strategy for growth

DF's Board of Directors want to look ahead and develop a strategy to grow the business. Partly based on a recent PEST analysis, the directors are considering two alternative strategies (see Appendix 3).

Appendix 1: Fly-away promotion 2017

| The offer: | Spend $350 on DF product in an AB store and get 2 free return plane tickets |

- Expected outcome: 10 000 customers are expected to apply.
- Actual outcome: 150 000 customers apply for tickets.
- Promotional cost: Average cost to DF of two return flights is $100.

Terms and conditions include:

- Return of postal application form within seven days of purchase.
- Customer to select three airport and date options.
- DF can reject customer airport selection and one alternative will be provided.

Answer both questions.

- 1 Evaluate the extent to which corporate planning could have prevented the 'Fly-away' promotion crisis. [20]
- 2 Advise DF on the likely impact of ratio results on its choice of future growth strategy. [20]
