

Syllabus update: Cambridge International AS & A Level Biology (9700) for examination in 2022, 2023 and 2024

We have updated this syllabus. The latest syllabus is version 2, published August 2020.

What has changed?		Detail
	Changes to syllabus content	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Changes have been made to pages 21, 29, 32 and 35.</li> </ul> Section 6 Syllabus content <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>LO 6.2.2: 'correspond to' has been added and 'stop signals' has been replaced with 'stop codons'.</li> </ul> Section 12 Syllabus content <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>LO 12.1.1: 'those occurring in' has been added in front of 'DNA replication'.</li> </ul> Section 13 Syllabus content <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>LO 13.1.10: 'stroma from the' has been added to the first line in the third bullet point.</li> <li>LO 13.1.11: 'in a reaction' in the second bullet point has been changed to 'in reactions'.</li> </ul> Section 15 Syllabus content <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>LO 15.1.10: the term 'transverse systems tubules' has been replaced with 'the T-tubule system'.</li> </ul>

We have not updated the specimen materials for this syllabus.

Please check the updated syllabus for further information.

The syllabus has been updated. You are strongly advised to read the whole syllabus before planning your teaching programme.